O.R.E.'S SLAUGHTER TWO WHITE SOX TWIRLERS

PILE UP 20 RUNS AND GIVE SAN- TA FE CHAMPS A PAINFUL INTRO- DUCTION TO DEFEAT; FANS ENJOY THE BATFEST.

LINING 'EM OUT

Only one other man in organized baseball can hit it like Hans Warner, who clipped out his 3,000th safety last week. For Warner made more hits than any other player in the game, 2,917. But it took him twenty-two years to do it, and Warner expects to lose his mark this season.

Confusion seizes the buster who tries to stop him. May he pile up a million? A grand old Dutchman, so it is aside from beating Washington with Walter Johnson opposed to him, A. Rankin Johnson, the Red Sox recruit twirler, doesn't seem to amount to much. He is a bear against Washington with his best pitcher on the hill, but other clubs know him out of the box—and have been doing it with brutal ease. A. Rankin modestly says of himself that he has speed like W. Mathewson, and a fadeaway like W. Mathewson. Washington probably agrees with him.

Twenty runs, seventeen hits and the game was all the O. R. E. team could get out of the contest with the Santa Fe White Sox at Traction Park yesterday afternoon. Except for that the railroaders couldn't seem to do much. They allowed the Sox to escape with their suits, their name and one run.
